One Thousand Dollars In Gold Will Be Given Away By THE BISBEE DAILY REVIEW

To People Securing Subscriptions To The Review
Before 9 p. m. Saturday, May 18, 1912

THIS is not a "voting" or "popularity" contest but a circulation campaign open to everyone and the prizes will be awarded to the persons scoring the largest number of points for subscription ordersturned into The Review. Anyone, man or woman—married or single, young or old—except employees of The Review or members of their families, is eligible to enter this campaign and to compete for the prizes, which will be awarded according to the following rules.

THIS is a golden opportunity for energetic, ambitious men, women and young people. Some lucky person will be paid $600.00 for less than six week's work, work which is pleasant and need not interfere with regular employment, and $400.00 more will be divided among six other persons who work, but not quite so hard as the lucky one that is awarded the first prize. To win any of these prizes it will of course be necessary to work, but still for the winners the prizes will be really "Easy Money" and at the same time "Extra Money."

The prizes will be awarded to the persons scoring the most points for subscription orders turned into The Review.

Points will be scored as follows:

Nomination blank 10,000 points
(Only one nomination blank to count for one person.)

For payment of subscriptions to The Review:

75c for one month 100 points

$2.25 for three months 500 points

$4.50 for six months 1,500 points

$7.50 for one year 5,000 points

Points will be awarded only after remittances in payment of subscriptions have been turned in to The Review.

No points will be awarded for orders by telephone or promises to pay subscriptions.

Points will be awarded for payment of any arrearage on a subscription account provided the subscriber so in arrears also pays for a period in advance of date of payment.

Payments by either new or old subscribers will count for the same number of points.

No points will be awarded for payment of a subscription for a period longer than one year, and if a subscription is already paid in advance for a period longer than six months, no points will be awarded for payment of subscription beyond one year from date of payment.

All subscriptions must be bona fide and start from date of payment, except in case of payment by a subscriber already paid in advance, when the present subscription is continued.

Duplicate subscriptions will not count for points. Receipt books and other necessary working material will be provided every person for whom nomination blank is sent in.

Points will be awarded for subscriptions secured any place and there are no restrictions as to locality from which any one entered in this campaign secures subscriptions.

In case two or more contestants secure the same number of points the prizes they are tied for will be divided equally between them.

After points have been credited to any person they cannot be transferred to the credit of any other person.

The $1,000.00 Will Be Divided Into Seven Prizes As Follows:

ADDITIONAL PRIZES.

For any who take part in this Circulation Campaign and do not win one of the cash prizes.

The Review will give a trip to Los Angeles to anyone who does not win one of the cash prizes in this campaign, but who does during it secure 20 yearly paid in advance subscriptions to The Review (or their equivalent—two subscriptions for six months to count as one yearly subscription, etc.). And will also give such a trip to the winner of any of the cash prizes instead of the cash prize if the trip is preferred.

These trips will include round trip railroad and Pullman fares to Los Angeles and meals on the train.

These additional prizes are offered so that any who work during the campaign and do not win one of the regular prizes may still be rewarded for their efforts.

Six hundred dollars for six weeks' work is the prize we are offering and will award to the person scoring the most points during this campaign.

That is surely good pay for the time and work that will be spent to obtain it.

Any of the other prizes are well worth devoting your spare time to for the next six weeks.

Ask your friends to subscribe for a year. Each yearly subscription counts 5,000 points and by paying for one year in advance the subscriber saves $1.50 over paying for The Review monthly and at the same time may help you win one of the prizes.
